

Göteborg, 21 October 2014

Hello,

Musician, improviser and composer Lindha Kallerdahl is back with a new album. The music speaks for itself, as always, but still there are some things that might be interesting to know about.

Lindha had two clear paths in her mind that she wanted to pursue when she decided to record solo album number three. Two paths that in a way are woven into each other, but also stand for themselves. Here they get one vinyl side each.

The first side contains excerpts from a live concert that was recorded in Malmö, Sweden in March 2014. Lindha had assembled her favorites from the improvisation scenes of Sweden and Denmark. Samuel Hallkvist and Thomas Gunillason on guitars, Katrine Amlser, keyboards and microguitar and Fabian Kallerdahl on piano. Two original compositions, one with lyrics by Synne Lea, both with a simple but effective structure that gives the musicians freedom to take the music to the right places. Big, generous atmospheres of guitars, sound, noise, melody and voice. The music that has grown in Lindha is a reverberation of collaborations with Ikue Mori, Christophe Studer, Ok-kyung Lee, Lotte Anker and Mariam Wallentin during recent years. The interaction between the musicians is everything. To get together around an atmosphere, a melody, a sound and from there find a clear, absolute direction.

The other side of the vinyl is a solo recording that was made this summer by Åke Linton in Lindha's livingroom in the middle of moving boxes and cleaning supplies. The idea was to, just before moving to a new home, with the expression of music put an end to 6 years of living in that particular room. To summon up memories, visions, failures and successes and get closure. The music is partly composed by Lindha, partly improvised. We are traveling through a sea of life, silence and mystery. From the bottom of the sea to the darkness of the universe Lindha's voice is flying like an arrow of light.

The vinyl album has no side A and B. It only has two first sides!* Two sides of Lindha's music of equal importance. Therefore the vinyl format is just perfect. However, the music is also available on CD and for downloading/streaming. The release date will be on the 10th of December, and on the 12th of December Lindha's quintet will perform at Nefertiti, Göteborg to celebrate their new album. That concert is a part of Hoob Records' big 10 year celebration festival.
